

Overview

The ImaginationGYM® Methodology is based on leading edge educational and cognitive theories with imagination at its core. It is designed to integrate with both formal and informal educational and childcare systems. It specifically targets individual life skills that are developed at primary age and will be essential tools as an adult in later life. For example, decision-making, problem solving, emotional intelligence, self-regulated behaviour and effective use of creativity and imagination.

ImaginationGYM® makes the assumption that all children are intelligent, all children want to learn and that all children are different.

ImaginationGYM® is designed to tap into the innate intelligences and learning styles of each individual child. The program's core design takes into account the stress and limited time/ resources of staff working with children. The quiet, calm atmosphere which the program creates encourages children to develop academic and life skills through creativity, while also benefiting staff.

The intensive research and development phase has been supported by a growing number of academics, psychologists and educational institutions worldwide and ImaginationGYM® is currently being integrated into the advanced childcare practices of Scandinavia.

ImaginationGYM® in Education

The ImaginationGYM® Methodology is based around specially designed audio programs and activities which develop imagination, whole brain learning and multiple intelligences in children 5 years upwards.

The flexible nature of the program means that it can be used as little or as often as teachers decide either as a standard ImaginationGYM® session using the CD and activity book (approx. 1 hour), as part of the SPHE Curriculum or as part of Individual Education Plans (IEP). It is of particular benefit to Resource Teachers, Learning Support Teachers, Home School Liason Teachers and School Counsellors.

ImaginationGYM® addresses a wide range of problem areas including

- Concentration and focus
- Behavioural problems
- Learning difficulties
- Decision-making skills
- Emotional imbalances
- Self-esteem issues
- Relaxation skills
- Lack of creativity & imagination

Additional benefits

- Integrates with school curriculum (SPHE)
- Excellent tool to prepare children for learning
- Self-paced for each child
- Self-reliability
- Ideal quiet-time activity
- Balances over-use of TV/ Computer games
- Easy to evaluate
- Cost/ Time efficient
- Integrates into home easily

Training Course

In this one day course, educational staff will learn about the ImaginationGYM® Methodology and its practical application in mainstream classroom settings. Information is also provided on how to tailor its use for individual needs, small groups and special educational requirements.

The training course explains the theoretical background to the Methodology and offers participants practical advice and ideas for using ImaginationGYM® Programs.

Certification for Level One is awarded on completion of the training course.
